Women to Mark Voting Right Law

A Women's Rights Conference will be held Wednesday at Point Park College to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the ratification of the constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote.

Catherine East, executive secretary of the Citizens Advisory Council on the Status of Women, will speak on "Women and Employment."

Dorothy Haener, international representative of the United Auto Workers women's department, will speak on "Women and Labor Unions."

Other speakers at the day long conference include Arthur Fletcher, assistant secretary of labor; Althea Simmons, national training director of the NAACP; and Elizabeth Scott, president of the Council for Women's Rights.
